The new edn. of this work, which has been a standard one for 20 years, is especially valuable, the articles being contrib. by many eminent specialists. On the whole it is the most convenient, most generally useful and cheapest of the working cyclopædias.

*Encyclopædia Britannica, ed. Prf. T. S. Baynes + Dr. W. R. Smith, 24 vols., ea. 30/– ; half-russ. 36/– Index vol. 20/– 4° Black [1771] 75–89 ; 89

This "Ninth Edn." is by some 1,145 contributors, incl. all the leading British specialists of the day; with 1,000 pl., maps, and ill. The standard work of reference, indispensable in many branches—especially modern science, pure and applied. The original stock has been re-issued in monthly vols. at same prices 1887–90, but dates are not altered.

Encyclopædia Americana, 4 vols. $33 4° Philadelphia 83–89

Intended as a Supplement to the Encyclo. Brit., consisting of special articles on American subjects, and biographies of persons who have died since the appearance of the Encyclo. Brit. and of living celebrities.

An unclassable book, consisting, as TAINE says, of "Twenty lines of a poet, a dozen lines of a treatise on agriculture, a folio page of heraldry, a description of rare fishes, a paragraph of a sermon on patience, the record of the fever fits of hypochondria, the history of the particle that, a scrap of metaphysics,—that is what passes through his brain in a quarter of an hour; it is a carnival of ideas and phrases—Greek, Latin, German, French, Italian, philosophical, geometrical, medical, poetical, astrological, musical, pedagogical, heaped one upon the other; an enormous medley, a prodigious mass of jumbled quotations, jostling thoughts, with the vivacity and the transport of a feast of unreason. He is never-ending; words, phrases overflow, are heaped up, overlap each other, and flow on, carrying the reader along, deafened, stunned, half-drowned, unable to touch ground in the deluge. Burton is inexhaustible. There are no ideas which he does not iterate under fifty forms, and when he has exhausted his own, he pours out upon us other men's—the classics, the rarest authors, known only to the savants—authors rarer still, known only to the learned: he borrows from all . . etc."

Napoleon iii.	History of Julius Cæsar [tr.] : 2 vols., w. valuable maps and ill.	25/– 8° ; 1 vol.	5/–	c 8°	Cassell	66

Written, as the author declares, "to prove that when Providence raises up such men as Cæsar, Charlemagne, and Napoleon, it is to trace out to people the path they ought to follow," etc. In reality an apology for Napoleonic absolutism ; but of some value, notwithstanding.

The last (fourth) edn. has the Romanische Wortschöpfung as an appendix, first added to this edn. Includes all the Romance languages, excepting Rhæto-Romanian. Vol. i.: Intro. and Phonology; ii.: Accidence and Etymology; iii.: Syntax. The 3rd edn. [Bonn 70–72] contained numerous changes which are objected to by some scholars, who consider the 2nd. edn. [Bonn 1856–60] the best. The 4th edn. [Bonn 76–77] is a repr. of the 3rd., and the 5th edn. [in 1 vol., Bonn 82] has the vols. and pp. of the 4th in the margin. An Eng. tr. was pub. in 1863 [4/6 8° Williams] but it is next to worthless now.

Arthurian Romances [and their sources].

Collections.

HUCHER, E. [ed.]	Romans de la Table Ronde, 3 vols.	[w. full and valuable notes]	8°	Le Mans	72-79

Contains (1) Rob. de BORRON'S Joseph d'Arimathe, in its prose version. There is also a verse version [ed. Fr. MICHEL 8° Paris 41]: neither have any reference to ARTHUR. (2) Walter MAP'S Great Saint Graal, wh. was based on de BORRON'S wk., but still has no direct connection with ARTHUR. (3) The Romance of Percivale [original form by de BORRON], wh. represents the quest for the Graal by a Knight not of the Round Table. The connecting link 'tween the two last is Merlin [attrib. to de BORRON], showing the Welsh influence; and this leads to Artus, thence Lancelot du Lac, Quest of San Graal, Mort Artus.
